AUTOPHONE.

THE AUTOPHONE is a wonderful little instrument, which, while it weighs less than three pounds, has the lungs of a full sized parlor organ, and executes its Music with absolute precision and perfect effects

It has twenty-two reeds, plays in three keys, and all the parts of most difficult Music. It is the invention of H. B. HORTON, who was also the inventor of the first organettes, and this last effort is the result of years of constant attention to the study of this kind of instrument, and in simplicity, accuracy, volume of tone and compactness, is the acme of mechanical and artistic success. On it, a child can correctly play, without instruction, any of its Music, which at present consists of over 300 selections from Hymns, Oratorios, Operas, Waltzes, Polkas, Marches, Popular Songs, &c. It is best adapted to the kind of Music which suits an organ best, , in which chords, predominate, but also has wonderful power in executing very lively pieces. It is entirely well adapted for country churches, Sunday schools, the family circle, and also for dancing. For use in serenading it is perfect, as it can be carried under the arm.

The Music is compact and far cheaper than that which is made for any organette. THE AUTOPHONE Is like every other good thing, the longer you have it, the better you like it, and as new music is being published every week, it has an endless fund of amusement in it.

PRICE INCLUDING FIVE PIECES OF MUSIC—$7.50.

Honokong, Friday, July 14, 1882.

As we announced in our issue of the (1) inst,, the assault case in which Dr. Gremen and a Mr. Periera appeared as complainant and defendant respectively, and the cross summons in which these positions were reversed were dismissed after a very patient hearing by the Magistrate on that date. What at one time appeared likely to prove a tragedy, terminated in one of the most amusing farces of modern times. Unfortunately, absence from the Colony prevented our being present when this wonderful case came to its final stage, so that we are unable from personal observation to sketch the denonment; however, we have he newspaper reports to guide us in recommenting on what we are bound to consider the most ludicrous burlesque on law. and justice we have ever heard of even in this Colony -- and that is saying a great

The facts of the case are few and simple, and have already been reported at length, in our columns, both in a letter from Dr. Greater himself, and is the reports of the evidence taken before Mr. H. E. Wone-Thouse, so they need not be repeated. On Monday afternoon we happened to be present in Court, and after listening patiently to the proceedings, left the precincts of law and justice -- ye gods! -- under the impression that the differences between the priest and his assailant had been amicably arranged by the latter tendering an apology on the understanding that the priest would do likewise. Let us honestly confess that we were disgusted under all the circumstances of the ease both with the solicitor for the defendant, and the barrister for the complainant, for advising any such compromise. Of course they were paid for their services, and we will presume that however andignified the positions in which they appeared so anxious to place their clients, they meant well and acted for what they considered the best. And yet Mr. Francis, who appeared for Dr. Giebler, opened the ball by asking the Magistrate, in the event of assault, being found proved. to inflict severe punishment on the defendant; whilst Mr. Holmes in retaliation breathed notes of warlike defiance. Lawyers are not like other men, and so we must no doubt make some allowance for their eccentric inconsistencies. On the afternoon following the postponement of the case, a postponement purposely granted to permit the aggrieved parties to arrange their respective apologies, a paragraph on the subject appeared in the Telegraph, in which we took the liberty of expressing our views on a case which was generally understood to be finally settled, and of plainly stating that we considered Dr. Giebler had been placed in a most unenviable position. On Wedthe Police Court, Mr. H. J. Holmes, of the eminent firm of local solicitors, Messrs. STEPHENS and Holmes, who appeared for the defendant, expressed his regret that owing to the counsel engaged for the complainant and himself having been engaged in the Supreme Court on Tuesday. nothing whatever had been done in the afternoon, In plain words, Mr. Wode-House had been induced to remand the case for a specific purpose on a clearly defined understanding, and Mr. H. J. Hormes had shown his respect for the Magistrate by taking no further steps in the matter. Mr. H. J. Holmes further addressed the Magistrate on the subject of the paragraph which had appeared in the Zilegraph. and asked that official to express his disapproval of the same, which, he asserted, con what grounds we cannot imagine, seeing that he had previously stated that since the case was remanded he had had no opportunity of meeting his client with regard to the matter) had rendered it impossible. hoped to arrive at. The worthy gentlesman then read an extract from the objectionable paragraph, and again askedthat the Magistrate should give some expression of opinion with regard to, what he contended was a contempt of court. Dr. Giffuler, at this stage of the proceedings. applied for a further remand as his counsel. was not present, which was refused, and the evidence for the defence was then taken.

After hearing evidence, Mr. Woblingesk.

after one of the most remarkable orations is ever heard from the Magisterial bench in which he flatly expressed his opinion. that Mr. PERFIRA had committed something xory like gross perjury, said he did not see. any good end would be effected by punlishing the promising youth, and as an , apology, which was certainly due to Dr. " Girmana had been tendered, he would dismiss both summonses. His Worship was then good enough to say that the paragraph in the Telegraph was very improper i in every respect, that it was most injurious to the interests of justice, and ought never to have been inserted, &c., &c. Healso said that Dr. Gremer's letter, which had previously appeared in this journal, sight! not to have been published. Happily we do not feel crushed at this expression of Mr. Wodehouse's opinion. To speak truly, the views of this worthy Magistrate do not affectus in the slightest degree, and welkewise view the opinions of the sapient Mr. H Holmes with supreme indifference and contempt. An idea appears to prevail in this Colony that the freedom of the press can be curtailed by trifles light as air. So far as we are concerned, the self-constituted censors of our local press may rest quite tranquil. When we require their advice as to what we shall publish and what we shall 'exclude from our columns, we shall request it; until then, we prefer exercising ourundoubted right to do whatever we consider | towards him, and threatened to assault him. advisable. In the present instance our comments were perfectly fair, and could not in any way influence or affect the interests of justice. The case was practically understood to be finished; but if it had not been, the position would have been but him. He had been under the influence of drink slightly altered. Contempt of court is a rag which feeble minded lawyers delight to play with. The only contempt of court we could see in this case was the disrespect [ (witness) told him he should report him. Defenshown to the bench by both Mr. Holmes and Mr. Francis, to which we have already alluded. We might object to the Magistrate's mode of expressing an informal opinion-as Mr. Wodenouse did -in a case | influence of liquor. Defendant, who made some which is officially before him, and we most | excuse about the hard work sought to be thrown | certainly have the best grounds for protesting against the valuable time of our Police Magistrates being taken up need-Hessly for several days without the slightest result accruing for the benefit of law and order. If it is in the power of a Police Magistrate to devote several days | to what was undoubtedly a serious case of assault, and then to dismiss the wholeaffair and more sensible arrangements were made. We really cannot see any reasonable grounds to justify Mr. Wodehouse in his extraordinary decision in this very important case. We rather think that public

A MAN living near Burlington, Vt., recently got divorced from his wife, whom he now employs as hired girl, but he can't see what he gains by the operation. She demands $3 a week, the washing sent out, three nights and an afternoon off, besides the privilege of having company in the kitchen, and now threatens to leave if he from which it appears that the tables won in that matter since they left the Court on Monday | does not introduce into the house all the modern, improvements.

> YESTERDAY a Chinese Constable at Ap-li-chau heard a hawker, who was pulling about in a bumboat, calling out "Samshu for sale," and saw a Chinaman buy some of the poison from him. He went after the bumboat, in which he found a jar of the liquor, and arrested the man, who was brought up this morning before Mr. Wodehouse charged with hawking spirituous liquors without a licence.—A fine of $5, or three weeks' hard labor, was imposed, the boat, liquor, &c., to be destroyed in the usual manner.

"Two married Chinawomen of the respective ages of 22 and 37, were charged before Mr. Wodehouse this morning with fighting and creating a disturbance in the public street yesterday. The constable found them pitching into each other with to come to the arrangement they previously ! their fists in the most hearty manner.-The younger of the two told the Magistrate that the other one had accused her of the heinous offence of weaning her (the other one's) husband's affections from her, an imputation she repudiated with the utmost scorn. The older one declared the younger woman was actually guilty of the impeachment. -- Mr. Wodehouse bound both ladies overin-$2-each to be good for a fortnight.

The defendant entered the store in a furious 3 passion, held out the summons in one hand, clutched a long knife in the other, and said :-'Williams, have you sued me?' Williams knew that an immediate 'yes' would make him sure of a stab. 'Let me get my spectacles so that I can read the paper, he said. He went behind the counter and came back, not with his glasses, with an axe across his shoulder. . 'Yes,' he said, 'I have sued you.' 'All right,' replied the desperado; 'I guess I'll pay the bill.'"

KHARELLAH ABDOOL RAHIM, 35, of Jeddah, a coal trimmer on board the P. and O. steamship Sumatra, was up this morning before Mr. Wodehouse charged with refusal of duty on the 12th instant. The Chief Engineer, according to the evidence, ordered the defendant to do some work which he had refused to do for the second engineer, when he used abusive and insulting language Defendant also called off the other men from their work, and was generally unruly in his behaviour. He had been six months in the ship, bore a good character at sea, but once he got to port a change for the worse, induced by overindulgence in fire-water, immediately came over since he arrived here, and was so still. - The second engineer said the defendant had refused to do some work he was ordered by him to perform, when he, dant said "Very well, report me," and at the same time abused him and added "If you report me, I'll break your head for you;" he then placed his hand on the second engineer's shoulder in a threatening manner, being at the time under the on him, was ordered to forfeit ten days' pay.

They support their own schools, and in most respects conform to American distoms. But they remain a kind of colony by themselves, coming and going, but the ranks of the colony are always full. The only objection urged to them is, that they do not come with the purpose of making homes in this country, but of earning a little money with which to improve their homes ncross the line. Of course, no comparison can be made between cheap labor of this character and that with which California is contending. However economical the cheap operatives in New Eugland may be, a large portion of the carnings must be spent in the communities in which they reside. Their food, clothes and shelter are of the same character as of the native population. They have families which are well taken care of. But if the native population of New England objects to this class, what would they do if they had our Chinese as competitors? The Chinese assume absolutely no expenses except those necessary to existence. They support noschools, no hospitals, no charities, no social position. A RIVAL of the notorious Sam Patch has lately appeared in America, though the successor of that daring jumper shows an amount of determination and sterling common sense which was wanting in Patch. He performed many feats from appalling heights, and, as a final exhibition, jumped into the Niagara River, and came up no more. Donaldson is the rival of Sam Patch's same, and the scene selected for his leapwas the centre of the Brooklyn Bridge, 135 ft. above the water. He has performed somewhat similar feats before, but never from such a height; and, of course, great interest, of a morbid and unwholesome kind, attached to the exploit. Donaldson naturally devoted the keenest attention to the manner in which these desperate leaps may best be taken, and to a reporter of a daily Journal he explained the position assumed by him in his jumps. He crouched into a sitting posture, with his arms across his breast and his knees well forward. Thus drawn together, he would spring from the bridge, and, as he neared the water he expected to straighten out, and strike it without injury to himself. Large sums of money were wagered on the success of the performance, and a considerable crowd assembled, on the shores and in boats, to see Donaldson risk his life. With a reprehensible want of delicacy, the subject of Sam Patch was brought up as the athlete stood, waiting for the appointed a patois. This is simply childish. > ADMIRAL Farquhar, accompanied by Colonel Crawford, commanding the Royal Artillery, and Mr. Wodehouse, Police Magistrate, paid a visit to Victoria Gaol about half past twelve this afternoon and went over the establishment, every thing in which, including the improved choking gear, was found in apple-pie order.

IN a case before Mr. Wodehouse this morning, in which four coolies were charged with assaulting another coolie in Gilman-street last night, the complainant tried on a "sham," pretending to be too ill to get into the witness box to give evidence. He was told by the Magistrate that if he did not do so he would be fined for contempt of court and the defendants discharged. Continuing recalcitrant, he was fined 50 cents or two days', the defendants being let off. Inspector Heimessy said the complainant had a slight cut on the head, and although pretending to be very ill, declined to go to hospital.

WE have seen the stale rechauffe which, under the heading "Criticism," Mr. Daniel E. Bandmann has sent to the Daily Press. The eminent tragedian is evidently determined to write himself down an ass at every available opportunity. If this new Daniel come to judgment will only favor us with something original, something he has not borrowed from other works and grossly mutilated, we shall have much pleasure in criticising his literary efforts. As, however, we happen to know that the great actor could not write a dozen lines of decent English to save his precious reputation, we have no inclination to waste our time dealing with hashed-up truisms and stale generalities with which every well-read school boy is intimately acquainted.

CAPTAIN Howarth of the Buffs charged two coolies this morning before Mr. Wodehouse with trespass. He said he had reason for some time past to suspect that people had been living on his premises who had no right to be there, last night at 9 o'clock he went to his servants' quarters, where he found the two defendants, who were formerly his chair coolies, one being dismissed two months ago, and the other a few days since, the latter for bad conduct. He had given strict orders that no one not belonging to the house was to be allowed on the premises. The defendants were lying down as if they had settled themselves for the night. -Mr. Wodehouse fined them a dollar each or seven days' imprisonment with hard labor. IN our article in Tuesday's paper on the exhibition made by Mr. J. Lourcito in the witness box at the Police Court in the case Giebler w. Percira, we ventured to express the opinion that, however thoroughly the Portuguese Consul General might know the Portuguese language, he could pretend to a very slight knowledge of English. Mr. Loureiro's so-called explanation in this morning's Pally Press fully bears out offr assertion. A feebler attempt to wriggle out of a difficulty than this "explanation" we have seldom seen. The Portuguese Consul General says that a friend has informed him that some of the Portuguese residents of Hongkong are under the false impression that he, Mr. Loureiro, stated at the Police Court that the majority of the Portuguese in the Colony were badly educated, and did not know their own language, but only spoke way affect his meaning. The last paragraph in Mr. Loureiro's letter to our contemporary is amusing twaddle, which will deceive nobody. joyment for Jack ashore, in the shape of a Temper-The Portuguese Consul General has grossly and Fance Hall. All went merry as two marriage bells, gratuitously insulted the entire Portuguese community, and no amount of "begging the question" and meaningless so-called explanations will get him out of his difficulty. Let him honestly acknowledge his fault, and publicly retract, and apologise for every word he uttered, and we shall be inclined to judge him more favorably than we feel disposed to do at present. Mr. Loureiro's for the beautiful sentimental talk he used to letter to the Daily Press is seeble beyond all expression, but the foot-note of the talented Editor of our respected contemporary is even worse than the "explanation." In endeavoring in the usual clumsy way to please everybody, like the man with the ass, the Editor of the Daily Press insults the Portuguese communities of Hongkong and Macao almost as grossly as did Consul General Loureiro.

THE prisoner, a fisherman, charged with being concerned in the piratical attack on a fruit junk in the Canton River on the 14th June, when fruit and other things were stolen from the junk by the pirates, was discharged this morning by Mr. Wodehouse, the Chinese Government not having made any demand for his rendition. JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 20, of America, George Summons, 20, of Austria, and Lars Henderson, 27, of Norway, unemployed seamen, were brought up this morning before Mr. Wodehouse, charged with being rogues and vagabonds. Williams, who would appear to be a second edition of Mark Tapley, jolly under the most adverse circumstances, took his place in the dock with a decided smile on his face, which he kept up until rebuked for his levity by the Magistrate. Mr. Wodehouse told him he was always laughing when in the dock, that if he didn't stop it he would have to punish him, and that it was not the first time he had had to speak to him about it. Williams thereupon screwed his features into a grave expression, but it evidently cost him an effort to do so, and soon after his risible muscles were again in motion. A letter, it appears, was received yesterday by the Deputy Superintendent of Police from a gentleman in Seymour Terrace, complaining of the annoyance caused by some loaning Europeans, who were in the habit of frightening the ladies in the Terrace after their husbands had gone to their offices in the morning, by going begging there. Inspector Hennessy said it was not known whether the three defendants were the men who had been thus acting, as other loafers were about, but the Deputy Superintendent finding the three sitting on the steps of the late French hotel in Wyndham Street about 12 o'clock yesterday, informed the Inspector, who sent a constable to arrest them. They all admitted they had no place to go to. Mark-Tapley, we mean Williams, had been in the colony eight or nine months. Summons and Henderson only a short time. Williams told the Magistrate he had no place to go to.-Summons said he was merely walking in the street when the policeman passed along and arrested him. He told the constable he was taking the wrong man. He had been here only since last Sunday. He had a chance of getting a passage to San Francisco by the Oceanic, but that had now been lost. He formerly belonged to the British bark John Tracey, andworked his passage down here from Shanghai.-Henderson said he formerly belonged to the Stillwater, but had no discharge. He had applied to his Consul for a couple so ofdollars by way of relief, but as he had no papers the Consul would not give him anything.-Mr. Wodehouse told the defendants he would remand the case for a week. If any of them got ships meanwhile, he would let them go. His Worship instructed Inspector Hennessy to inquire of Mr. Brunker whether he knew anything about the defendants, whom he let out on their own recognizance in the sum of two dollars each. Williams has served two sentences of fourteen and twenty-one days' hardlabor in Victoria Gaol on the same charge, but is still as jolly, and apparently as happy, as his celebrated prototype whom Dickens has immortalized.

Coffin merchants—we beg pardon, we mean undertakers-are, generally speaking, a pushing go-ahead class. The gentleman (?) who used to do the amiable in this Colony for those who joined the majority, was a very pushing man To him the numerous thousands who use the Temperance Hall are indebted for the benefits they receive in that establishment, for he was the originator of the scheme, and, take him for all in all, the sort of person whose like we have no particular wish to look on again. Mr., or rather Tommy A--- as he was more familiarly spoken of, was quite a great gun in his own tin-pot, coffin making way, being Grand Worthy Chief Templar of the LO.G.T.'s, and general bummer round in anything that a red cent was to be made out of. Tommy was a gentleman of outspoken manner, albeit a trifle ungrammatical, and his "Our principles is total habstinence" must be familiar as housewith Jack's welfare and the redemption of the Sheaker in the days when Hongkong knew not a Hall of Temperance. We sigh as we write this, for we were younger in those days, and our checks were ruddier, if our brains were softer than now. We had not journeyed much through this vale of tears when we first became acquainted with Tommy, and had a decided inclination for something in the trump and nimbus line, having been connected with the Temperance League, the French alley home. We were made Secretary (honorary) to the Committee that was formed for the purpose of establishing a haven of rest and harmless enand the scheme was humming like a well spun top. Alas, there came a change, a funeral knellwas sounded. In an unguarded moment the party whose principles was total habstinence (he was Chairman of committee) let out that the Temperance Hall was to be worked on the share system, and that we, the promoters, would make a fine thing of it. This was cruel; the humble coffin maker whom we, in our youthful trust had, serve hout to us members of the good cause_ league, raised to the dignity of a ministering angel in our mind's eye, a person of all others who was bound to get a right royal crown in the distant bourne for good deeds done here, suddenly appeared before us as a mean, sordid skunk, a money grubber of the worst type, a hypocritical whining corpse case maker. We immediately threw up our billet of secretary, and, after telling the worthy C. G. T. that if he had been a younger man we might have given him a tenant for one of his second hand fir suits, for so confoundedly playing on our youth and innocence, we inwardly vowed to have no more to do with the coffin fraternity until stern fate and the grim scythe bearer compelled us; however, we are living in hopes that cremation will be fashionable before it comes to our turn, so that our aversion to the Arabs, the ramshackle feather mounted meat eart, and the studded box of any shape and make, may be carried out, aye, to the bitter end. Business has, since then, sometimes brought us into contact with the undertaker tribe, and where duty calls we are there, maskee our likes and dislikes. Not so long ago we were present in our professional capacity, at an annual gathering of the fraternity, at Sydney, N.S.W., and a jolly lot they were. The plumes had been Jaid aside for that day and the topmountings taken off the drags; with striped cotton tacked round the bottoms of the coaches, and gaily formed rosettes fastened to the horses heads, the cortége looked more like a circus on the war path than a crew of funeral merchants en route to Sir Joseph Bank's Hotel at Botany, Our reportorial thoughts would, try against it as much as we could, occasionally wander into theorising as to who was the previous passenger carted off in the conveyance we were adorning as we gaily sped along, the envied of all other toilers of the earth whose annual pic nic it did not happen to be. As would naturally be supposed, trade formed one of the staple subjects of conversation, and we quietly picked up much information on the funeral "biz" during that day. The inevitable speech making harl to be gone through with, in the intervals at dinner, and the cap was put on the concern by the chairman finally proposing " success to trade," which was carried with cheers. We quaffed our shandygaff in silence while the toast was being done, and ruminated deeply, but rose not to the toast; we are great on enterprise, , and cannot but admit that those dealers in last suits looked like men of prish, parties who would not stick at a trifle, aye, not even giving a dead'un a double up if his last dress, through some fault of measurement, were scarcely a decent fit, and a couple of fectorso, short, but the sentiment, "success to biz," was not congenial to our feelings; we were probably bilious, or, happy thought, being Scotch, unable to see the point of the joke. Our own very special local finishing outfitter is also another instance of the pushing, forward, and enterprising spirit which seems to be characteristic of the profession, Ye gods, what are we coming to, and is well worthy of a niche in the wall of undertaking fame when he departs from amongst us encased in one of his own special make, at Menticans twenty five; and, if we are in the flesh when the event takes place, we will wipe away the froth of the last glass of Foster we have sent south, from our moustache, worry up a fresh goosequill, and write his obinary notice, free of charge, with right good will. The man who is able to carry on so many multifarious businesses in which coffia maker and bailiff shine so prominently, is well worthy of more than a mere passing notice, and we assure him of it, in the hopes that the assurances of our intentions may cheer and comfort him. Another instance of the enterprise of the suit of solemn black tribe, which, however, did not result very profitably for the party here spoken of less profitably in fact than our own local's latest attempt at bailiffing, may thus briefly be given to further illustrate the love of trade which seems born in them. Two men, well advanced in life, had been acquaintances for many years, from boyhood upwards; one of them was a merchant, the other was an undertaker. For two or three years they had not been on visiting terms. The successful merchant drew the line at coffin makers, well knowing that some day one of the tribe would draw the line (tape) not at, but over him, although he had no particalor wish to hurry on the last event. A dire stegless paid a visit to the wealthy merchant, to his last kick? Who should hear of such tidings if the undertakers didn't, who are always on the look out for likely customers? Why, we ourselves! have heard our own local remark that so and so was booked for a quick passage, and further, breathing a wish that clients would really come in a trifle faster; dying is nothing you know when you're used to it. And so the merchant's undertaking acquaintance thought the dire illness a fitting time to renew his visits, and paid a visit in consequence. The sick man thought the visit was one of condolence and bore with it, though he had no intention asking Coffins to repeat the dose: How soon indeed was his idea dispelled; with that pash, and forwardness for which the undertaking tribe are so justly notorious, not celebrated, the mercenary coffin maker pleaded theirlong acquaintance, and blantly told the merchant that, as he was going off the hooks, he hoped he would give him the job to put him away, as he could do it as well and as cheaply as any man in the trade. Just fancy the shock it must have been to the sick man, who had no intention whatever of going off at that time. He, however, rose to the occasion. Calling one of his sons upstairs he cooly informed his boy, (a youth of six-feet two and fifteen stone in weight) a colonial boy every inch of him, of the undertaker's conversation and asked his son to kick Mr. Coffins down stairs. The kicking part was done to a fine old tune, the undertaker-having to live in retirement in the Sydney Infirmary for four months in consequence. It need hardly be added that no action for damages was evertaken by Cossius, as it is more than likely that a lynching would have followed such a course. The merchant recovered and it has been our pleasure more than once to hear him relate the last interview he had with Catamarran Jack theundertaker. One more illustration to prove the push and forwardness of the tribe and we have done with them. A prominent undertaker, who had just finished tucking

То тип Епіток от тив "Новаково Тилипати." SIR,-A further and glaring instance of the reliance to be placed upon the reports which appear in the Daily Press, is to be found in the account given in its yesterday's issue of Father Giebler's reply to Mr. Wodehouse when asked if he admitted the truth of Mr. Percira's statement. Your veracious morning contemporary says Father Giebler did admit it, with the exception of the allegation that he made use of the word canalha. The reporter of the Daily Press must know very well, or at least he ought to know, that Father Giebler, instead of one, made three exceptions, the other two being that he did not knock Mr. Percira's hat off, and that the latter did strike him with the stick. Now these are two very inpactant points to have been omitted by the Prag, and both will be found given in the Telegraph and China Mail. I don't like to accuse the Baily Press of wilful suppression of most maferial facts, but from whatever cause arising, such incorrect reporting is deserving of severe condemnation.

THE LATE WICKING V. MARQUES CASE.

To the Editor of the "Hongkong Telegraph" SIR,-Newspaper reports, especially those furnished by that portion of the press yelept shorthand reporters, are expected to be fairly accurate. The public have a right to expect that all cases which appear in the newspapers shall be reported fairly and faithfully, and those more particularly interested, the patties engaged in any cases reported, have even a greater right than the general public that their doings in Courts of Justice, made public through the medium of the Areas, shall be faithfully chronicled. I have read the reports of the Wicking v. Marques case in the Dailly Press and China Mail, both reports having been taken by the shortland men from the Wyndham Street establishments, and cannot understand how such different reports could be taken by those experts. was present during the hearing of the Wicking-Marques case, and must certainly say that a more garbled version of a case has never before appeared in any paper in this Colony as that which (dis) graced the columns of the China Mail o 6th instant. The public areinformed that Mr. Justice Snowden told Marques that his defence had completely broken down, and also when Mr. Wicking wished to cross-examine Marques that he informed Wicking that such a course was unnecessary as the defence had ntterly failed. Mr. Justice Snowden made use of no such remarks as completely broken down, and utterly failed, and these expressions can only have been stuck in by the friendly editor of the evening print for the purpose of making the man. Wicking a martyr in having to sue for the claim, and the possessor of the sympathies of the judge who tried the case. Now, notice the difference. The Daily Press has it that the judge said it was a remarkable thing for one in an togive another $100 for nothing, and also to do so without any acknowledgment. The whole case, to my way of thinking, rested on what the Daily Press affirms the Justice to have said. That the money was received was not denied, that it was a loan there was no legal proof, no acknowledgment whatever. In this Colony especially, where the characters of so many business men of high standing have been shewn up to a fine old time at various times, loose principles of conducting business prevail to an enormous extent, and this fact is widely known. Traders think nothing of offering inducements to those likely to give them custom to secure the same, | Sell by Public Auction, on although such a course, in the sense I mean, is far from being honest; and if traders make an I the 24th July, 1882, at 3 P.M., at the Premises, open practice of such a thing, is it matter for any surprise that a lot of gamblers and reckless speculators in house property should resort to offering bonuses for extra exertion or influence used in their behalf." It seems a reasonable construction to put on the face of affairs, in the absence of any acknowledgment of the loan, and when it is supported to a certain extent by the statement of the broker, that the $100 was given as an inducement to prominently push Wicking's property forward amongst the Chinese in preference to other properties which the broker then had on hand, and was a sort of retainer. What Mr. Wicking stated about brokers not getting paid anything until their transactions are completed, is all bunkum and rubbish, and does not prove at all that a broker may not receive a retainer or gift from a client to give extra attention to any particular business. The Wicking v. Marques case is settled, but I ain not alone in my opinion that a different decision would have been arrived at had the facts connected with the case, and only those, been numour had it that he was close handy ticularly complain of in the present instance is the unfair reporting in connection with the Wick-

His Honor, in as curt a manner as it is possible for the genial gentleman who tried the case to assume, told Wicking to "stop that," which had the effect of closing up Wicking like a knife. These matters, had they appeared in the China Mail, would have given a coloring of truth to the

ing-Marques case. The China Mail does not tell the public that Wicking, while in the box, called Marques a liar, and hurriedly corrected report; however, most right thinking persons know well enough what value to put on a public print that prostitutes itself to bolster up the character of one man, to whom it is known to be more than friendly, at the expense of breaking down the character of another who has never done it an injury,

CRITICISM,

То тик Ерггов ог тис "Помском Телескаги." Sir,-If any man in this vale of tears bas a right to be heard upon such a subject as Criticism, that man, I claim, is Daniel E. Bandmann. He ought to know, and undoubtedly does know more about it than most folks. He is a good Critic himself, on the ground that to be an efficient Critic a man must have arrived at the age of maturity. Mr. Bandmann is very much matured as we all know.

I am rather surprised that Mr. Bandmann, i his essay on Criticism, should complain of the want of salt in most Criticisms. In my humble opinion, Daniel E. Bandmann is the best salted, pickled, and preserved actor of this, his own, or any other age, so well preserved indeed, that his hide seems impervious to either the "quips or sparks or paper bullets of a pilfered imagination"

-(He's got'em bad). I have been a great Critic in my time, having been in many Critical situations; one just occurs to me as illustrating Mr. B.'s youthful reminiscences. Amongst my school mates was a big lubberly boy called Dan. He was, without excepnon, the most bombastic, egotistic, and selfish boy I ever knew. Dan interviewed me about ten minutes after my arrival at the new school. He commenced his Criticism by informing me, that members of my family had been brought up on | guaranteed. old boots, or something of that kind. I am naturally like Mr. Daniel E Bandmann, very modest, and of a most inoffensive disposition; but this allusion, seeing that a fond mother and a bevy of pretty sisters had just left me in tears, was, I concluded, outside the pale of true Criticism. I thought of taking out a writ, or something of that sort, on the spot; but finally landed him one in the bread basket which was even worse than a " quip or a spark or a paper bullet of pilsered imagination."—Dan doubled himself up and simply howled. I then jumped on him in a heterogeneous manner until the arrival of the head master, and although I got pretty severe punishment, I was happy in the consciousness that I had not allowed "my own nature to mingle with my sense of duty." Dan afterwards took to a travelling show, and I have no doubt his latter end will be worse than the first.

Yours, &c.,

PICKLES. Hongkong, 14th July, 1882.
